GOOD SEPTEMBER BUILDING FIGURES FOR QUEENS.

The New Construction Work Called for an Investment of About $2,000,000, as Against One-half That Sum a Year Ago-Jamaica the Centre of Activity. Carl Bergen's report of building operations in Queens during September affords fresh evidence of the rapid growth of that berough. Plans were filed during the month of 423 new structures calling for a total expenditure of nearly $2,000,000. In September, 1907, only 308 new buildings were projected, and their estimated cost barely exceeded $1,000,000.

The territory immediately to the north and south of Jamaica avenue and the main line of the Long Island Railroad is the scene of greatest activity. Hundreds of new buildings, mainly private dwellings of brick or frame construction, are going up in the side streets, while rows of flats with ground floor stores are being built along the trolley route. Woodhaven, Richmond Hill and Jamaica have spread out to east and west until their outskirts have practically merged to form a continuous settlement.

This growth is due largely to the estab-lishment of the electrified local service on the Long Island Railroad. Commutation rates are low, trains are run at frequent intervals and the time of travel is incon-

Two important items that served to swell the total amount of capital invested in new construction work in Queens during September were the filing of plans for the First Presbyterian Church at Rockaway Beach, a memorial presented by Mrs. Russell Sage, and for a $100,000 parochial school to be erected in the same district by the parish of St. Mary's Star of the Sage.

of the Sea.

The following statistics, obtained from the Department of Buildings, show the gains made during the month of September as compared with the entire quarter. In several instances the number of buildings projected in September is almost as large as the total for the two preceding months:

Plans have been filed with Building Superintendent Murphy for a new six story apartment house to be built for the Birch Realty Company, Henry Raabe, president at the southeast corner of Audubon avenue and isad street. It is to be of brick and limestone, of Renaisance design, having a frontage of 104.11 feet and a depth of 90 feet. It will contain thirty suites of apartments and is to cost $150,000. The architects are Moore & Landsiedel.

Plans have been filed for remodelling and modernizing the four story and attic loft and office building at No. 160 Water street and eliminating the attic floor, the improvements being made for H. G. Salomon as new owner, and for cutting off a gore slice of the two loft buildings at No. 459 Water street and No. 237 South street, owned respectively by the estates of Stephen Whitney and Mary C. Warren, the alteration being made in connection with the Manhattan Bridge construction at this point. Alfred Freeman and Theodore C. Camp are the architects.

Plans have also been filed for rebuilding the floors of Enoch Morgan's Sons' soap manufactory at the corner of Bank and West streets, which was recently damaged by fire, the improvements including the floors, and for enlarging the two story and basement private dwelling at No. 224 East Fifty-second street for Willis H. Watson as owner. J. B. Snook's Sons and Henry Houghton are the architects.

The Bronx plans for new buildings comprise a block of eighteen two story dwellings, each 20 feet front and 55 feet deep, to be built for the Mechan Buildings Company on Manida street, south of Garrison avenue, at a total cost of $144,000; a two story dwelling and stable on 135th street, east of St. Ann's avenue, to cost $4,000, and a three story dwelling and stable on 135th street, east of St. Ann's avenue, to cost $4,000.

says was lured away from home. His sister's name is Mary and she is 18 years old. Milliken says he, his sister and mother lived happily together on the old farm until a "city stranger" showed up. He came to the Milliken home to try to sell a household article. In this way he met Mary.

Although the stranger's visit to the house falled to bring him a sale, Cyrus explained, he called frequently with other utensils and each time engaged in conversation with Mary. Neither Cyrus nor his mother thought anything of the occurrences until Mary left.

The last time the stranger visited the old farmhouse was Saturday. He talked with Mary for about an hour. Mary disappeared the next day. When she went away she wore a sunbonnet and tan shoes and explained that she was going to visit Carrie Hopkins, a neighbor's daughter. She didn't go to the Hopkins house and has not been seen since.
